DESIGN INTENT:

The Pitch Black returns with an all-new cover that is sure to impact urethane performance with the same intensity as the Controll cover did. In an effort to keep up with the ever-changing landscape of cover compliance, we focused on creating something that provides a new motion on the lanes when compared to the !Q 78/U. Featuring a completely different material subset, the Stabilyze urethane cover provides a vastly different motion off the end of the pattern compared to the Controll covers. This versatile material, while still creating very early friction, allows the bowler to shape the ball more than previous urethane iterations. Increased elasticity within the material creates a more pliable cover which makes this possible. As with the previous Pitch Black, the Capacitor Core will produce a lower amount of flare which keeps the ball on-line longer perfectly balancing out the early nature of the cover.
